Passing Away. BY CHAS. SWAIN.

Look from the casement-look and toll What's passing, mother dear : Since dawn I've heard a funeral bell, Slew pealing on my ear; And now there comes the solemn fall Of footsteps sweeping high, Look down the street, I hear their fest, Some funeral's passing by.

The mother gazed with anxious face, But nothing there was seen, Except each old accustomed place, And what had always been.

A moment yet, dear mother, stay; Strange sounds are on the air. Like angels singing on their way, Or voices deep in prayer! Oh! lift my pillow high-more high-For I am faint and low ; Help me to look upon the sky, And bless them ere they go !

The mother taised her daughter's head, But no word could she speak; The hopes that from her bosom fled, Left tears upon her cheek.

The night looked through the casement old, And saw a cheek so pale— A form so wasted, thin, and cold-No skill might there prevail; But that which conquere death yet beamed Upon her wasted brow ; And sweet, as though an angel dreamed,

Ah I who the monster's grief may tell ? Or who may comfort bring ? Vet, high above the funeral pell, She heard the angels sing.

The sufferet rested now !

Adventure with a Lion.

One day, when eating my humble dinner, was interrupted by the arrival of several of the natives, who, in breathless haste, related that an ongeama, or lion, had just killed one of their goats close to the mission station (Richterfeldt,) and begged me to lend a hand in destroying the beast. Her M josty, through the advice of he Council; has recommended Ottawa, as the Canadian Seat of Government. It is said that this city got the preference as a place so remote from civilization, that an enemy, in time of war, could never find it; but we believe that the eclection was made in accord ance with the wishes of the Canadian Ministry. If, however, the advice was given Her Majesty on military grounds, why not solvise the removal of the Imperial Parliament of London to a mountain fastness of Scotland or Wales; lest some Paul Jones should again visit the Island? Such a proposition would be quite as reasonable as to recommend the removal of the Canadian Scat of Government into an inaccessible wilderness, and the supplies would be voted the other. To the Editor of the New Era. Sra-You are no doubl, aware that on the second Wednesday in Jaquary, the Protestant inhabitants of this villago, elected six fit and proper persons (?) to till the office of School

A, body elected by the popular voice, one would naturally suppose ought not to be afraid to have the public listen to their deliberations; not so, however, with our Board like the Inquisition of old they must sit with olderd doors. by order of the Board that they would receive applications in " propria person" as well as by felter in answer to which several applicants maile their appearance before this august body, as, however a day was appointed for the final decision, no answer could be given to the applicants until then. The inhabitants were not kept in ignorance of these facts, and at the appointed time the Board met-Mr. J. B., Callwell in the chair. The applications were read by the Secretary, several of our most respectable citizens were in the room when the intimation was given by the Chairman that thort absence would be preferable to their presence. Of course, Sir, on a hint of this nature, our Citizens not being posted upon the full powers vested in the arbiters of the educational destinics of our children and, no doubt, fearing that if prompt obedience were not rendered to his righness the "the Chairman of the Roard of Common School Trustees for the Village of "lewmarket," the probability would be that the " usher of the Black Rol" would be at pice called into requisition, and, the fathers of some of our children, actually sneaked out of the from like whiteped school boys. The Chairman declared the motion lost, a mo tion was then offered to drop the name of M. Ling, which of division was pronounced caried. There were you will observe, at the stage of the proceedings only two names before the Board, viz: Alexander and Moulton A motion was then offered that Mr. Moulton be the Teachet, when the vote stood two for three against, ; the Chairman pronounced the motion lost. You will now sir, observe that only one name was before the Board, and not withflanding that Mr. Alexander laid before the Board the best possible textlinoritals, some of which consisted of cettificates from the Head Master of the Muttant School; the Head Master of the Model School : the Mayor and Corporation of the town of Milton; a first Class Diploma from Dr. Hyerson, &c., ke, Notwith
